THE SURVIVOR

For 60 years, the Dalai Lama has been the face of Buddhism. China has another plan

by CHARLIE CAMPBELL
The Brief

News from the U.S. and around the world

7 | Probing the mystery of Jared Kushner's security clearance

10 | Congo attacks raise fear of Ebola's spread

11 | Milestones: Luke Perry and André Previn

12 | TIME with... the chief ranger of Grand Canyon National Park

The View

Ideas, opinion, innovations

15 | Can climate change shape the 2020 election?

17 | Jan Bremmer: why Israel’s Benjamin Netanyahu is fighting for his political life

18 | Dream Hampton on R. Kelly and the meaning of justice

19 | Behind the ongoing U.S. measles outbreaks

Features

The Journey North
One migrant family’s perilous trip to the U.S.
By Jay Root 20

Man of Faith
The Dalai Lama reflects on a life of exile, tension with China, and his search for joy
By Charlie Campbell 28

Varsity Hotshots
High school shooting teams are growing in popularity
By Sean Gregory 38

Time Off

What to watch, read, see and do

45 | Brie Larson plays Marvel’s first solo female superhero

48 | Reviews: Now Apocalypse and Gloria Bell

50 | Art: rethinking Frida Kahlo

52 | Questions for fashion designer Tory Burch

ON THE COVER:
Photograph by Ruven Afandor for TIME

Belongings that now 7-year-old Heyli left behind hang on a wall in a house her parents leased in Olancho, Honduras

Photograph by Verónica G. Cárdenas for TIME and the Texas Tribune